

To Whom It May Concern,

Tobi Abawonse was a student in two of my classes: System Analysis and Web Development. Tobi got high marks in both courses. He was a very hard working and dedicated student. It was obvious that he has a passion for learning. Tobi strived to do his best in class. His classroom work was always of high quality.

The System Analysis course had a class project. The objective was to take a business problem and develop both a business case and system prototype. Tobi demonstrated that he could think outside the box and he developed an application that showed creativity.

In the Web development course, there were eight assignments. Tobi demonstrated that he could take a business problem and develop a technical solution. He was quick to learn and displayed a strong technical aptitude.

I would strongly recommend Tobi primarily due to his academic knowledge, interpersonal skills, and excellent attitude.

Professor David Lee

Professor David J. Lee